Re: Jackson v. DePaul College of Law

USDC No: 10-C-1982

Dear Judge Ronald A. Guzman:

On April 14, 2010, you denied my petition to proceed in forma pauperis, and stated that I had (14) days from April 14, 2010 to file an amended IFP application with further explanation. I would like to respectfully request a "motion to appeal" your original decision, as I am financially limited, due to being disabled, and living off of a small income of $893 a month from Social Security Disability (SSDI), in which, I have to pay rent, and all utilities which is barely enough to survive from (my only source of income). Therefore, if you could reconsider your prior decision (denial) and overturn your decision and let me file this case without having to pay the $350.00 filing fee, I would be so grateful and appreciative of your generosity. Additionally, it would be very helpful if I had some help with legal representation in helping me pursue what I feel was an injustice.

Thanks Kindly,

Mesue Jackson

(I have attached a copy of my income statement)
